

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1744.

Hamburgh, December 31.

According to our last Advices from Petersburg, it appears plain'y, that the Court is determined to push the Affair of the Marquis de Botta to the last Extremity; and our Politicians observe, that this Scheme has been managed with great Dexterity. The Court of Vienna had asserted the Marquis de Botta's Innocency, and attempted to render it publick, from the Czarina's Declaration when the Affair first broke out; which imported, That what they had discovered was not a formed Conspiracy, but a Combination of disaffected Persons, to take the first Opportunity that offered of doing Prejudice to the State. But when the Court of Vienna had treated this Matter so lightly, the Czarina returned to the Charge. It was not, says that Court, expedient to avow the Danger to the State; nor do we even now assert, that there was a Conspiracy formed to effect any certain Purpose; but we charge the Marquis de Botta with endeavouring to spread Disaffection, while he continued as a Publick Minister at Petersburg; and drawing many People into deep and dangerous Designs, by promising them Assistance from foreign Powers; and it is, say they, very far from being a Proof of the Marquis de Botta's Innocency, that treasonable Discourses are made so light of. After all, it looks as if the reviving this Affair in so ferocious a Manner, was intended to give some Colour to a Change of the present System in Russia. This seems to be, in a good measure, explained by our last Accounts from Sweden, where the Russian Party are altogether for War; and have so far carried their Point, as to get both the Swedish Ministers recalled from Copenhagen. By this bold Step, it is very probable that Denmark will be obliged to lay aside, for the present, all its Pretensions upon Holstein; and if once Matters are fixed in this Way, it is visible that the whole North will fall under the Influence at least, if not under the Authority, of that Family; which is also very considerable in Germany. It has been likewise observed, that the Emperor discovers an unusual Respect for the Czarina, and for the Family which is to succeed her; in Consequence, as it is supposed, of Intimations given him from the Court of France. So that, without doubt, no Art or Pains will be spared, to throw the Weight of so considerable a Power into the Scale opposite to the Interest of the House of Austria; which, humanly speaking, can only be prevented by the Interposition of his Britannick Majesty; who is not only in high Esteem with the Czarina, but with the Senate; and whose Ambassador Extraordinary is expected at Petersburg with the utmost Impatience.

Berlin, December 31. Our Court continues to talk as much of Peace as ever, but, at the same Time, makes great Preparations for War, as before the Campaign in Silesia; tho' we are pretty well satisfied, notwithstanding, that there will be no Campaign next Spring, on the Side either of Moravia or Bohemia. The King is, on the one hand, determined to observe the Treaty of Breslau with the greatest Exactness; and, on the other hand, he is as much resolved to support the Honour of the Head of the Empire, and the Independency of the Germanick Body, according to the strong Assurances he has given, not only to the Emperor himself, but also to the Dyet of the Empire. This it was that inspired the Court at Franckfort, with the Resolution of sending a Decree, penned in so strong Terms as that of the 11th Instant, for expunging the Queen of Hungary's Memorial and Proteits; and when once we see what Turn this Affair will take in the Dyet, we shall soon be able to judge of the Conduct our Court will pursue for the future. In the Interim, it is no wonder that the Court of Vienna presses so earnestly, for admitting her Minister to his Seat in the Dyet; where, considering the Weight which the Austrian Dominions in Suabia would give him, it might prove a Means of defeating the Scheme of the Decree, by procuring a Remonstrance, very different from what the Emperor seems to expect from the Germanick Body. In the mean time, our Court is more brilliant than ever. On the 28th, the King and Queen assisted at the Assembly, which was held at the House of Count de Gotter, Marshal of the Court, and Counsellor of State and of War. The same Day arrived a Courier, with Dispatches of great Importance, from Count Dohna, his Majesty's Minister at the Court of Vienna; since which, it is whisper'd, that it will not be long before he is recalled. Prince William of Hesse-Cassel is still here, and dines and sups every Day either with the Queen Mother, or the Queen Regent; and of all the Princes that have been here lately, he is treated with the highest Marks not only of Deference and Respect, but of Confidence and Friendship; yet nobody pretends to guess, what is the true Design of his Journey, or whether he will succeed in his Negotiations.

Paris, January 7. The Lieutenant-Generals lately appointed to command under the Prince de Conti have been changed; and those now talked of are Messieurs de Sennerre, Dy Cayla, Lautrec, and Danvois. The Major-Generals are Messieurs Dargouges, Du Chatelet, Mirepoix, Villemur, Bissy, and Courteu. The Officers are all ordered to be at their Posts, and to have their Equipages in Readiness to march by the 15th of next Month.

Extract from a Private Letter.

Paris, January 7. The Dutch Gazettes will inform you, that his Majesty has been most graciously pleased to make some Diminution in the Duties imposed by his late Edicts; but there was something so singular in his Manner of doing it, that I question not your being very well pleased with my giving you a more distinct Account of the Matter.

The Parliament having thought necessary to make some Representations to his Majesty on the Subject of the three Edicts last published, the President, attended by a Deputation from that most Illustrious Body, went a few Days ago to Versailles, where they had an immediate Audience of his Majesty; to whom the First President addressed himself in the following Words.

Sire,

Peas, Beans, Lentiles, and such kind of Things, are the chief Support of the poor People of your good City of Paris.

These Words were pronounced with such an Air of Concern, and, at the same time, of Submission, that they instantly produced the desired Effect; for his Majesty immediately told the First President, and the Deputies of the Parliament, his Sentiments, in the following Words.

Be persuaded, that I have the greatest Tenderness for my People; as a Proof of it, I grant you all the Relaxations that the present Situation of my Affairs will possibly permit. I am very well satisfied with this Step of my Parliament. I reckon always on their Zeal and Fidelity, and I will speedily order an explanatory Declaration to be drawn, in relation to the Things you have mentioned.

The Parliament retired, very well satisfied with the Reception they had met with; and, in a few Days after, appeared the explanatory Declaration, which his Majesty had promised.

The most Delightful Fragrant TINCTURE for the Breath, Teeth and Gums.

AT once using makes the BREATH most charmingly fine, sweet, and pleasant, the Teeth perfectly white, clean and beautiful, and is the most certain Cure for the Scurvy in the Gums in the World.

It infallibly preserves the Breath, Teeth and Gums in their utmost Beauty and Perfection, if they are no Ways disorder'd, and if they are, immediately redifies all their Defects; for the same Minute it is used it makes the most offensive Breath smell incomparably fine and charming, and in a short Time so effectually cures, that a disagreeable Breath will not return.

It instantly makes the blackest and most foul Teeth extremely white and delicately beautiful; infallibly preserves them from decaying, and those a little decay'd from becoming worse; absolutely cures the Scurvy in the Gums, be it ever so inveterate, causing the Flesh to grow up to the Teeth again, when almost eaten quite away, and assuredly fastens loose Teeth to Admiration. It is to be used but a few Drops at a Time, is exceeding pleasant, and leaves a very grateful and delectable Flavour in the Mouth.

In a Word, for most delightfully performing, and quickly curing an ill-scented Breath, for immediately making the blackest Teeth most excellently white, certainly fastens them when loose, effectually preserving them from rotting or decaying, and infallibly curing the Scurvy in the Gums, it has not its Equal in the Universe, as all the Quality and principal Gentry, who use it acknowledge.

It is to be had only at Mr. Radford's Toyshop, at the Rose and Crown against St. Clement's Church-yard in the Strand, at 3 s. 6 d. a Bottle, with Directions.

For the EYES,

The so-much Fam'd CHYMICAL LIQUOR, WHICH at once infallibly cures all

INFLAMMATION, BLOODSHOT, SORENESS and WEAKNESS of the EYES, Defluxions of sharp Humours, Dimness of Sight, Specks, Films, or beginning Cataracts, and that after all other Means have fail'd, and without causing the least Trouble or Uneasiness in using.

It directly heals and cures all Manner of Soreness of the Eyes in Children or grown Persons, tho' of many Years standing, be it either of the dry, itching and smarting Kind, or moist, rheumy or watering, and whether proceeding from the Evil, or any other Distemper.

It effectually takes away all Specks, Films, or incipient Cataracts to Admiration, as also all Flies or Gnats, that seem to swim before the Sight; it wonderfully strengthens the Optick Nerves, comforts the Eyes, immediately removes all Dazzling and Dimness, clearing the Sight, and infallibly preserving it strong and good to exceeding old Age.

Hundreds who were so very dim-sighted for some Years as scarcely able to distinguish any thing, and imagin'd their Age to be the Occasion, have been perfectly and almost instantly cured by it, so as to read the smallest Print without Spectacles; and for Ophthalmies, or Sore, Bloodshot, or Rheumy Eyes, no Medicine upon Earth can come near it. Thousands of Men, Women, and Children, have been cured by it of the very worst Sort, almost upon the Spot, and Blindness been prevented in abundance who had tried all other Remedies in vain, inasmuch that it may be almost accounted a miraculous Remedy.

No Family ought to be without it, nor ever will, after they have had but one Day's Experience of its admirable Efficacy.

It is to be had only, by the Author's Appointment, at the Gentlewoman's at the Two Blue Posts in Haydon-Yard in the Minories, London, at 3 s. 6 d. a Bottle, with printed Directions.
